Provincial Sunday School Convention

The Eleventh Annual Provincial Sunday School Convention will be held in Calgary on Nov. 12-17. It is the aim of the Convention to attract the work of the Adult and Secondary Division of the Sunday School. One of the features will be a half day conference on the Elementary, the Secondary, and adult Division. These conferences run simultaneously.

Rev. J. C. O'Connor, pastor of the First Baptist Church, Calgary, will conduct a half hour Bible study at the opening of each session of the convention. The International Sunday School association will be represented by Rev. W. Brown, Sup. of the Missionary Department, and also a specialist in the work of Adult Bible Classes. The Sunday School workers will also be favored by an address from Dr. Sperry, of the International Y. M. C. A. Other speakers on the program are Mrs. F. G. Harwood, Calgary; W. T. Falt, of the boys department; Y. M. C. A., Edmonton; Miss H. Robinson, Calgary; Rev. M. A. Maclean, Calgary; Rev. E. S. Bishop, Macleod; H. F. Kenney, former General secretary of the Alberta Sunday School Association; Rev. J. M. Beaton, Blairmore; Rev. C. T. Holman, late of Medicine Hat.

Other speakers are being arranged for, and the Convention promises to be one of the most helpful to Sunday School workers that has ever been held in the Province.

At Blairmore Friday

Thirty five of the most talented Juveniles to be found on the stage constituted the "Follies" Juvenile Opera Company. They are all from Australia, and the name is in the business. They present a number of the latest musical comedies in a way that puts an adult opera company to the blush, their acting, dancing and singing being matters of marvel to all who see them. They opened their first American tour in San Francisco, at the old Trivoli Opera House, in 1906, and since then and nothing but praise for them, and in all towns visited since.

This is the fifth tour of the world made by this organization, commencing in Sydney, Australia on July 1, 1912. Every piece is mounted and costumed in the best style, and the performers are perfect in every respect. The engagement is for one night at the Opera House Friday Oct 4 in Sergeant's Hall.

Quite a number of Bellevue supporters went to Lethbridge last Wednesday to attend the Conservative rally.

Branch Organized

The Rocky Mountain Branch of the Canadian Mining Institute is Formed

The adjourned semi-annual meeting of the Canadian Mining Institute was held at the Rocky Mountain Sanatorium on Monday, September 30. The president, Dr. Alfred E. Barlow, formerly a member of the geographical survey of Canada, and at present in consulting practice in Montreal, presided.

There was a large attendance of representative colliery managers and others from British Columbia and Alberta points. At the morning session the principal business included the adoption of a resolution expressing the desirability of the appointment of a minister of mines for the Dominion, and a decision to establish a branch of the Institute in this section.

The following gentlemen were elected to serve in official capacities: Chairman—W. R. Wilson, general manager of the Crow's Nest Pass Coal Co., Fernie, B. C.; Secretary—John T. Sterling, provincial inspector of mines, Edmonton; and Lewis Stockett, O. E. S. Whiteside, R. W. Coulthard, W. F. McNeill and Robert Livingstone.

This branch will be known as the Rocky Mountain Branch of the Canadian Mining Institute. After organization had been effected, a large number of applications for membership were received from coal mining engineers present.

During the afternoon session interesting papers were read and discussed, as follows:

Mining Engineers Report by W. D. L. Hardie;
Development of Jasper Park Collieries, by Mr. Morris;
The use of Concrete in Shaft Sinking, by Mr. Ashburner; Provincial Mines Legislation, by W. F. McNeill.

It was decided to hold the next meeting of the branch at Lethbridge on November 20th, when several interesting papers will be read and discussed.

Fire At Blairmore Hotel

Another big conflagration was barely averted on Tuesday night of this week when fire was discovered in the basement of the Blairmore hotel. Immediately an alarm was made and the firemen were soon on the spot with a good supply of hose; but their services were scarcely needed as the fire had been put out before having the chance to gain any headway. Considerable damage was done by water, and some linens were destroyed.

Arrange Cheap Trip To Highway Convention

New Westminster, B. C. September 29—Special rates have just been arranged with the C. P. R. for all delegates and members attending the convention of the Canadian Highway Association in Winnipeg, from October 6 to 12. All delegates are required to purchase a full fare single ticket to Winnipeg and get a receipt for this from the agent, the receipt to be exchanged later for return transportation, after having been properly certified by the secretary of the association.

The one-way tickets for the round trip is good only in case there is an attendance of 100 or over at the convention. If there is less than 100, one-third of the regular round fare will be charged. The attendance will probably be greatly in excess of the required number, and arrangements have been made for a hall that will easily hold four hundred people.

W. J. Kerr, President of the Canadian Highway Association, is now in Winnipeg arranging some of the final details and interviewing a few of the prominent speakers who have consented to address the meeting.

A large number of photographs secured by the official photographers of the association, and also scenes showing Thos. Wilby in his automobile trip across Canada, have been made into lantern slides and will be used to illustrate lectures at the convention.

A Talented Artist

It was the artist's privilege last evening to hear a very fine German mezzo-soprano in the person of Madame Fakhia Weinberg-Roesing who has come here recently from Cologne, Germany. Herr Phil Weinberg accompanies his clever wife and it is their intention to locate in this country which they admire very much. On this occasion Madame Weinberg sang Schubert's familiar Andacht, Beethoven's entrancing Ich liebe Dich, and a very beautiful song from Robert Kahn's pen in which she revealed a dramatic mezzo soprano voice of excellent quality, well trained and capable of giving adequate color to these respective numbers. Moreover this artist possesses unusual temperamental gifts which enhance greatly the beauty of singing. Her schooling has been of sound type. Herr Weinberg played the accompaniments with singular refinement.

On Saturday night we had the opportunity of hearing Madame Weinberg-Roesing in Blairmore, and take pleasure in reprinting the above clipping from the Lethbridge Herald.

VARNISHING DAY.

It Brings Many Surprises at the English Royal Academy.

When the hanging committee of the English Royal Academy has completed the work of "hanging" the artists whose pictures are exhibited on the academy walls are forwarded a piece of pasted paper known as a "varnishing card." This card is the first intimation the artist receives that his picture has passed triumphantly through the processes of judging and "hanging," and it allows him to visit the academy on a particular day—varnishing day—just before the galleries are thrown open to the public. Hundreds of thousands of the brush are to be found in the galleries of Burlington House on "varnishing day," and here and there are flights of steps and improvised platforms covered with artists putting the last finishing touches to their canvases. Here, perched on the top rung of a pair of steps, is a young lady with smiling face scripping her picture with a palette knife and putting in fresh spots of paint occasionally, while on the floor at her feet is a young man whose features are as pale as his eyes, his eyes staring toward the ceiling. His canvas is hopelessly blank, and he is silently awaiting the members of the hanging committee for their lack of judgment.

"Varnishing day" brings many surprises to the exhibitors. One man will find his canvas wrongly named, and another, an impressionist, may be startled to discover that his glorious sunset, over which he has taken so much pains, is upside down. And for the first time he realizes that an impressionist's pictures can be turned about any way without greatly endangering the effect.

Turner had one of his paintings hung upside down, and old eccentricities were remembered in a little canvas, "A Sleeping Nymph," was once, owing to lack of space, placed on the wall in an upright position and remained "The Waking Nymph."—National Geographic.

FUNNY FRILLED LIZARD.

Carries an Umbrella, Has a Whip Tail and Walks Like a Bird.

The frilled lizard is found in Australia. It is found in the north Queensland and the Kimberley district of Western Australia. It lives on beetles such as are found on the tree trunks. It is about three feet long, measured from head to tail point. What makes it remarkable consists of two things—its burled, walk and its whip-like tail.

It carries a sort of natural umbrella top about its neck, which it elevates suddenly with an alarming effect even to ordinary insects. In fact, it carries them as an umbrella opened in the face of a charging bird; hence it is called the frilled lizard. Its tail is not much more than a definite appendage, an animal, but when it flutters it uses its long, like tail in a way to bring long brushes on one's hands. In fact, could it be properly trained, it might serve as an automatic switch, which the magic rub-a-dub-dub stick, would at the word of command throw to the disobedient child.

From the scientific point of view the creature's peculiar method of ambulation is most interesting. It presents an absurdly grotesque appearance at such times, more especially from the rear. It walks bipedally on two feet, like a bird, and when it does it resembles a bird in its walk that it seems to be the connecting link between the ancestors of birds and the lizards of today.

ARE YOUR LEGS STRAIGHT?

Professor Francke Says He Is Pretty Sure They Are Not.

Nobody has straight legs—that is, legs that are perfectly parallel. What are commonly so called are the mildest degree of X legs, while those that are technically most nearly straight are the mildest degree of O legs.

X legs and O legs are the names given to bowlegs and knockknees by Professor Francke, writing in the Scientific American. According to his examination of 1,000 pairs of legs taken at random.

O legs always look like strong limbs, while X legs give the impression of weak members. Professor Francke lays down the rule that if when standing in a natural position the knees and ankles touch without forcing the subject has straight legs. If, with the ankles touching, there is as much as two centimeters between the knees, it is bowlegged. If, with the knees touching, there is two centimeters between the ankles, it is knockknee, or X legs.

Children born with O or straight legs tend to become X legged while learning to walk, but it is not until twenty-three or in perhaps 25 percent up to the thirty-eight year. Women, it is said, are more likely to knockknee or X legged throughout life, as a result of their skirts and their lack of exercise.

The ancient Greeks never had and modern navies never have X legs, which, Professor Francke says, are consequences of civilization and tend to imply physical inferiority.—Chicago Inter Ocean.

A MONSTER SUN SPOT.

The Newest One Nearly Ten Times the Size of North America.

The largest sun spot which has been detected within a year, a cool patch on the sun's surface, 10,000 miles in diameter, though its mark on the seventeen inch image at the Mount Wilson observatory measures but a fifth of an inch across, is now under observation at the Carnegie observatory and has been photographed several times since its appearance, on June 10. The area of the sun spot is approximately 75,540,000 square miles, a surface nearly ten times the size of North America, in which twenty-two countries of the size of the United States might be placed with plenty of margin around the edge.

Professor Percival Ellerman has headed the work of photographically capturing the spot, which is now moving westward.

"The question of whether the sun is growing cooler or warmer is the effect of the cooling of the body would have upon the earth is still debatable. It would take us thousands of years to know whether the sun is becoming cooler."—New York World.

Balls Pitched in a Game.

It is possible for a pitcher to throw only twenty-seven balls in a nine inning game. No accurate record of the smallest number of balls thrown in any game exists, as no one counts every ball in every game. I scored one game in which Ed Walsh pitched only eighty-eight balls, seven of which were fouls, which is a record. Watchers Are Sensitive.

There is in Cleveland a central office for the inspection of watches which serve sixty different railways. Twice a month every railway servant must take his watch to a local inspector to be regulated, and once a year it must be cleaned. Neglect of these rules may be followed by suspension or discharge. The officials of this inspection department have found that the watches of engine drivers with regular runs keep much better time than those of men who work in long stretches followed by a long rest. And the watch resists even a change of pocket.

"And what your reason for increasing the servant's wages, pray?" his friend asked.

"Because my husband complained that my dress and millinery bills equaled the household expenses, and I want to show him they do not!"—London Tit-Bits.

Making Himself at Home

Doris was radiant over a recent addition to the family and rushed out of the house to tell the news to a passing neighbor.

"Oh, you don't know what we've got upstairs!"

"It's a new baby brother!" and she settled back upon her heels and folded her hands to watch the effect.

"You do it say so!" he is going to stay!"

I guess so,—very thoughtfully. He's got his things out."

OLD GOD OF THE CAR

Tale of the Decay of Juggernaut the Persons whose tender childhood years were nurtured upon tales of the unforgettable car of Juggernaut, beneath the wheels of which poor Hindus flung themselves to be mangled into immortality will hardly read without a pang of regret the following report from the ancient city of Puri, three hundred miles south of Calcutta, where Juggernaut has had his shrine since 1198 or earlier.

At one place by the walls, says the Chicago Herald, the car of Juggernaut, carved in relief, and standing eighteen feet high. An almost horrible object, it is a black except for its apple-like face, which is brilliant red. Devout pilgrims place their hands on it, press their foreheads to its feet, and pass on, confident that they have appeased this god of their long journey to the Hindu's paradise.

Outside the walls of the temple the car of the god is a black, eight feet in diameter and a foot thick, mounted on axles twenty feet long and four inches in diameter. One picture the car as carved from costly wood, black with ornamental work in gold and set with precious stones.

In fact, a new car is built every year, in which the god is seated, two miles for a fortnight's rest at his garden or country house. Vast numbers of pilgrims gather in the car, and the car moves slowly forward to the cheers of thousands of spectators. But the heavy wheels, which are deep into the sand and it slows down at stops. Interest lags, the priest now accepting more touching of the ropes as sufficient service, and hired coolies complete the journey, two weeks being sometimes necessary to traverse the two miles, and an even greater time to return. The British government now, however, has sacrificed the life under the car, which probably accounts for the decline of the festival.

A Joke by Mansfield

Julia Mansfield, the charming Shakespearean actress, tells a story at the expense of the less brilliant members of her profession. The late Richard Mansfield's company was once on a hearing more or less faithfully for an hour when the hypercritical star seemed to be in a bad mood. Several seconds Mr. Mansfield watched the rehearsal—his expressive face turned to the statue of a minute—wait a minute. Impatiently called out the pompous stage manager: "Where are those two ladies that are supposed to come down that hill in this girl's case? Thereupon Mr. Mansfield abruptly interrupted him. Go on—go on with the scene, he ordered authoritatively. Then he turned to the stage manager and patted his shoulder. "I don't think it will be necessary to have those two ladies brought in to me. It looks to me as if there were enough on the stage already."

Use for Chinese Temples

In Canton and Honan there are a large number of temples to the memory of numerous deities about whom nothing or very little is known, and the only time one ever hears of them is once a year, when the priests are celebrating the birthday of the god or other festival. The new Government is of the opinion that this alienating public opinion or causing ill feeling many of these temples could be put to a much more useful purpose by being given into the hands of the educational commissioner to turn into schools. The matter is receiving attention and the funds hitherto paid to a number of lay priests and caretakers is to be devoted to education. Also the many celebrations held on the birthdays of the various gods are to be canceled and the only festivals of this kind to be held are the Confucian celebrations.

Describing negro labor on the railways of the south, a southern railway official says that negroes must be provided for each gang of workers, and that he must be fitted with a good yoke. He uses a chain which enables the men to work in a line. Every pick rises and falls at the man's instant in time with the rhythm of the song of the leader, says the railway man, and it is surprising to note the speed with which work can be done by this means.

In thirty-two years England has lost 640 acres by erosion, but this has been more than made up by the new land which has formed during that time.

The Greek government is building railroads, constructing irrigation works and making harbor improvements.

A Grouch's Story

A couple of old grouchers were one night speaking of an old friend, who upon his deathbed, told up his recollections in another city. One of the grouchers had recently visited the old friend, and naturally the other old grouch went down to the Benedict.

It was true that he is heaped with the second grouch.

I wouldn't say just that, grimly responded the first grouch, but I'll tell you of a little incident in their house, hold that came within my observation. The very first morning after his death, the first grouch was with them, our old friend answered the letter carrier's whistle. As he

Presumably a baggage handler passed, he carried a letter in his hand. Turning to his wife, he said—

Women and Asthma—Women are numbered among the sufferers from asthma by the countless thousands. Presumably the majority of them are helpless in the grip of this relentless disease unless they have availed themselves of the proprietary remedy of Dr. J. K. A Lengthy Stock in Trade

The late W. H. McConnell, an advance agent of Broadway, was a man of much renown, was standing in the baggage room of a railroad station, waiting for a trunk to be sent to an advance agent. They were waiting to have their trunks checked. Presumably a baggage handler passed, pushing a sample trunk, which according to Stoltz, was about nine feet long and about two feet wide.

For the love of Mike! ejaculated Stoltz, what do you suppose the owner of that trunk said?

I don't know, said McConnell, but from the shape of that package I'd be willing to guess—Kansas City Times.

Japan Went Longer Legs

The attempts now being made to lengthen the legs of Japanese school-boys, by means of a special kind of shoe of the race may equal that of the European and American, were described to the City Club recently by Harvey N. Sheppard, of Boston. Mr. Sheppard had just completed a globe-trotting trip, which was a study of local self-government. Children in Japan now sit upon chairs instead of on the ground, he declared. This is being done as an attempt to make their legs grow longer.

Japanese surgeons say that the trunk of a Japanese is as large as that of a European, but that the former's legs are much shorter, making the race of Nippon appear decidedly less attractive to the eye. Several generations can be stretched by using chairs, instead of the old custom of squatting. The Japanese will be as tall as men of other nations.

Sparking Inspiration

Ole was recalcitrant and she was wailing. Minna had certain rules for punishing her intractable offspring and they were as unalterable as the laws of the Medes and Gomer. She had never heard but whose rigid she understood. So when Ole forgot mamma's commands one day and lingered too long over his play she felt the coming storm as she measured home. Then came an inspiration.

Aunt Annie, worst you spank me, please? Ole fairly shouted at her. What, Ole, what do you mean? What have you done?

Then time a tearful confession of wrongdoings, and as a climax: Please, you spank me, Aunt Annie; mamma never more than you do.

It is only fair to the Ole escaped altogether this time.

Minard's Liniment Cures Garget in Cows

A real estate man was confronted with a novel case of fault-finding the other day, and is still a little puzzled by it.

It appears that he negotiated the sale of a piece of land for a special purpose, through neighborhood changes, has become worth ten times the price of the land for a special purpose. The dealer told him he had the very thing, adding that he believed the land would become valuable in the same ratio the first day done.

Not on your life, cried the prospective customer. I bought a $5,000 lot from you and it serves my purpose as well as if it cost twenty times as much. Instead of saving the expenses on a $5,000 lot, however, I am assessed on a $50,000 one and have no prospect of making a profit. Sell me a $5,000 lot that will stay put at $5,000 this time, and don't you dare mess with it with hungry elephant.

And the dealer is still a little dazed.

French farmers find small culture a profitable undertaking. As many as 600,000 first quality snails, the price of which throughout the year averages $1.70 for one thousand, can be reared on an acre of land. They have to be fed only once a day, preferably in the evening, and though extremely voracious are by no means fastidious. After a fall of rain, which seems to sharpen their appetites, a lot of 100,000 will demolish a heavy load of cabbage in a very short space of time.

Why—My dear, are ampires all ways wrong? Hubby—No, always. Sometimes they carry the home team the best of it.

More About The Loading Platform

The present exaction of Western farmers will never know the difficulties and vexatious expenses of the earlier years when no one could get a carload of grain shipped in bulk except by loading it through an elevator. The system forced the majority of farmers to sell their grain to the elevator owners at arbitrary prices, and oft times to submit to heavy dockage and other annoyances, causing continual dissatisfaction. Now however the distribution of grain to the best advantage for himself. If farmers refrain from using the loading platform freely, it might result in its being done away with, because railway companies and elevator owners are strongly opposed to it. It is easy to understand why elevator people desire the loading platform abolished. The railway people on their part say it delays the loading of cars and hampers them in the handling of grain. Minard's Liniment Cures Garget in Cows

A real estate man was confronted with a novel case of fault-finding the other day, and is still a little puzzled by it.

It appears that he negotiated the sale of a piece of land for a special purpose, through neighborhood changes, has become worth ten times the price of the land for a special purpose. The dealer told him he had the very thing, adding that he believed the land would become valuable in the same ratio the first day done.

Not on your life, cried the prospective customer. I bought a $5,000 lot from you and it serves my purpose as well as if it cost twenty times as much. Instead of saving the expenses on a $5,000 lot, however, I am assessed on a $50,000 one and have no prospect of making a profit. Sell me a $5,000 lot that will stay put at $5,000 this time, and don't you dare mess with it with hungry elephant.

And the dealer is still a little dazed.

French farmers find small culture a profitable undertaking. As many as 600,000 first quality snails, the price of which throughout the year averages $1.70 for one thousand, can be reared on an acre of land. They have to be fed only once a day, preferably in the evening, and though extremely voracious are by no means fastidious. After a fall of rain, which seems to sharpen their appetites, a lot of 100,000 will demolish a heavy load of cabbage in a very short space of time.

Why—My dear, are ampires all ways wrong? Hubby—No, always. Sometimes they carry the home team the best of it.

Then time a tearful confession of wrongdoings, and as a climax: Please, you spank me, Aunt Annie; mamma never more than you do.

More About The Loading Platform

The present exaction of Western farmers will never know the difficulties and vexatious expenses of the earlier years when no one could get a carload of grain shipped in bulk except by loading it through an elevator. The system forced the majority of farmers to sell their grain to the elevator owners at arbitrary prices, and oft times to submit to heavy dockage and other annoyances, causing continual dissatisfaction. Now however the distribution of grain to the best advantage for himself. If farmers refrain from using the loading platform freely, it might result in its being done away with, because railway companies and elevator owners are strongly opposed to it. It is easy to understand why elevator people desire the loading platform abolished. The railway people on their part say it delays the loading of cars and hampers them in the handling of grain. We handle the farmers grain strictly on commission, make liberal advances on car bills of lading, supervise the grading at time cars are inspected, secure the highest prices at time of sale and make prompt returns when sent. Write us for shipping instructions and market information.

MANY YEARS AN INVALID—UNTOLD AGONY FROM HEAD-ACHES

Dizziness, Sinking Spells and Excessive Weakness Disappear With

DR. CHASE'S NERVE FOOD

Nearly every woman will read with interest the letter of Mrs. Geo. Bradshaw, quoted below. It tells of years of great suffering from Nervous Headache and other symptoms arising from weak, watery blood and a starved and exhausted condition of the nervous system.

Mrs. George Bradshaw, Coey Hook, Harlowe, Ont., writes:—"I am glad to state that I received benefit from Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, which I had to get any place else. I was troubled for many years, in fact from my early womanhood, with weak, watery blood, and given to drowsy. I suffered untold agonies from nervous sick headache, dizziness, and sinking spells, in fact was a semi-invalid for many years. I tried many kinds of patent medicines, and got no help, and tried every new doctor that came along, but all failed to help me. Doctors told me I had no blood, and that my heart and kidneys were diseased, and that I had so many complaints there was not much use in doctoring up one or two. Four years ago I took six boxes of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and was glad to see I felt better, and then got six more, and they have cured me of many of my complaints. When I began taking Nerve Food I weighed 116 pounds, and to-day I weigh 139, and am 40 years old."

Guarding a Royal Train

Few people know that the passage of a Royal train is guarded almost every yard of the way, by the journey of the Sovereign short or long.

Many people laugh when I draw up lines upon lines of soldiers drawn up along the railway metals in Russia where the Czar travels, but I am sure they are not laughing at the same thing practically occurs in England, only without the ostentatious display of uniforms.

The line which the Royal train is to pass is quite as effectively guarded, though to all appearance there is nobody there.

A German merchant, resident in Moscow, has left all his fortune, amounting to half a million, to all those of his employees who have served under him for five years or more. Their portions are to be reckoned on the basis of the first annual wage multiplied by the number of years they have been in his service. Those who have worked for the firm less than five years receive a lump sum of $50,000, which is to be divided according to wages and length of service. The staff has been asked to organize the business inherited by them into a joint stock company.

Schoolgirl An Athlete

For the fifth year in succession a Rotherhithe girl has won the sports championship of the London County schools in South London.

Nellie Stockwell is 13 and the daughter of the keeper of the Rotherhithe mortuary. Her latest trophy was the championship medal won at the school athletic meeting, where she was first in six events and second in four others.

She won the championship first when she was nine, and has secured it every year since, although the girl competitors have numbered more than 1,700.

I don't train in any special way, she said. My father gives me plenty of sugar, and I have running exercises. Besides her sports trophies, Nellie has a first-class swimming certificate, and until recently she was captain of the net ball team of her school. Also she can show five medals for good conduct and attendance.

Up to now she has captured thirty-one prizes of different kinds.

A Grim Profile

A curious occupation has sprung up in Paris. Several doctors have received a circular from a newly-formed agency, which offers to find patients for them. The fees are rather high. They vary from $20 to $100. On receipt of the fee the doctor is secured a list of 20 consumptives, 20 epileptics, 20 people suffering from cancer, and so forth. He is then at liberty to call and offer his services. The agency's circular declares that the lists of patients are compiled from absolutely certain sources and that the money will be returned if there are more than three mistakes in each list. This is rather a grim proviso.

A Remarkable Dog

A dog which had, during nine years of its life, collected upwards of 15,000 coins under remarkable conditions, died on Saturday at Reading. The money had been devoted to local charities. The dog never carried a box, but begged for a coin. For a half penny the dog demanded a biscuit as a condition of releasing the coin, and two biscuits were required in exchange for a penny or two coins. In all, the dog had earned 15,000 biscuits in its philanthropic collecting.

One Way To Play Even With The

Mail Order House

Does anyone suppose that catalogue houses could enjoy much trade if they did not tell the people who patronize them what they have to sell? The great catalogue house in the country might have warehouses filled to overflowing with goods and never sell any, if they waited for buyers to write them, and ask for certain things they keep in stock.

The catalogue houses play up every thing they have to sell. They create a demand through their ways of advertising. They remind people that there are things needed, and having looked up the reminders, with pictures, pleasing and convincing descriptive matter, find it an easy matter to get orders.

That's the difference between the catalogue houses and the average dealer.

Ask the latter why he does not advertise his goods, he will indignantly assert that everyone knows he has the goods, and he wonders why he will ask for them.

Not so. If the dealer would get right down to intelligent advertising, the buyer would soon know, and remember, too, that the dealer has what they want. They would be constantly reminded that things are kept in stock. The catalogue house would not be half so tempting when the local dealer takes a little space in the home paper to tell the buying public some of the things that are for sale.
